Ike Declares Guard Will Be Protected

NG Officials Tell Promise By President

Delegation of Four Visits White House For His Assurances

WASHINGTON (AP)—National Guard officials quoted President Eisenhower as saying today he will "not permit the Guard to be destroyed or materially reduced in strength."

Serving as spokesman for four representatives of the National Guard Assn. who met with the president, Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord told newsmen Eisenhower "realizes the value of the Guard and will see that it is maintained."

The delegation called at the White House in the wake of a controversy touched off last week when Secretary of Defense Wilson contended some Guard enlistments during the Korean War were "a sort of scandal" a "draft dodging business."

The Guard group protested to Eisenhower against a Pentagon decision to make enlistees take six months of basic training. The Guard wants training held to 11 weeks for enlistees below the minimum draft age of 18½.

This dispute seemed likely to come up for discussion before a House Armed Services subcommittee which met to question defense officials about the lagging Army reserve program.

Eisenhower last week called Wilson's remark "very unwise." But the President backed the defense chief in saying enlistees should get six months of active training instead of the present 11 weeks.

The six-month program is scheduled to go into effect April 1. Reckord, who is adjutant general of Maryland, said in reply to questions that there was no mention of Wilson's remark at the White House meeting.

"His name wasn't mentioned," Reckord said. A bit later Reckord went before newsmen and television microphones and cameras where a reporter asked him:

"Who is trying to destroy the Guard?"

"There are a number of men in the Pentagon who would destroy the Guard if they could," Reckord replied. "Some of them are in high places."

He did not elaborate on that. The Guard wants to continue its 11-week training program, contending a longer period would discourage enlistments.

Gas Explosion Traps, Kills 37 In Coal Mine

BISHOP, Va. (AP)—A rumbling gas explosion trapped and killed 37 miners today in the cavernous Bishop coal mine that straddles the mountainous Virginia-West Virginia line.

Rescue teams said this number of bodies had been counted below ground. Apparently the entire crew working in a section of the sprawling tunnels fell victims to the whistling, dusty blast.

The blast jammed the elevator that had carried the men in to the Virginia side and rescue work had to be routed through another entrance two and a half miles away on the West Virginia side.

The grimy masked workers who pushed through to the explosion site had all but abandoned hope for any survivors by the time the first nine bodies were found.

Identification went on below ground before any bodies were brought to the surface. The blast site was described as "about a five minute walk" from the bottom of a 337-foot shaft.

Missourians Are Due For Warmer Weather

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Missouri is due for a little warmer weather. It will be warmer Tuesday with highs in the 40s and for the five-day period temperatures will average 2 to 5 degrees above normal.

There is some chance of occasional light rain or drizzle in the extreme southeast this afternoon and occasional rain or drizzle in the Bootheel section Tuesday.

Most sections of the state reported traces of moisture in the past 24 hours, but the greatest amount reported was .08 at Sedalia.

Second Blair Message Due

Legislature Has Big Pile of Bills to Tackle

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Missouri's 1957 Legislature headed into its second month today with a big batch of bills to work on and a second message from Gov. James T. Blair Jr. coming up.

The governor is expected to address the lawmakers at a joint session of the House and Senate tomorrow or Wednesday, spelling out a little further some of the basic policies outlined in his budget message last week.

Meanwhile the House appropriations Committee plans to start work on the first of the money bills introduced last week to put the administration's multi-million dollar budget into effect on a one-year basis.

The House has about 200 bills to chew on, including many bearing the seeds of hot controversies. Senate committees plan to take a look this week at a bill to set out in detail the state's investment policies under a new constitutional amendment authorizing investment of idle funds at interest.

State Treasurer M. E. Morris announced Saturday he plans to keep about $50 million invested in time deposits bearing interest at one percent and keep $40 million in three big checking accounts to meet current operating expenses.

Any money above that, including proceeds of the $75 million building bond issue not needed immediately, will be invested in 90-day treasury bills, now paying three per cent.

Morris estimated the state would realize $500,000 to $1 million a year in new revenue from the interest.

Also coming up in a Senate committee later today is a new plan to transfer senile patients from mental hospitals to approved nursing or rest homes. It is being sponsored by Sen. Albert M. Spradling (D) of Cape Girardeau, who headed a special committee which studied mental health problems two years ago.

He succeeds Judge Samuel A. Dew, retiring today at the age of 75.

Hunter's name was one of three submitted to the governor under Missouri's nonpartisan court plan. The others were J. Gordon Siddens, also a Kansas City Democrat, and Circuit Judge Fred H. Maughmer, Savannah Republican.

Blair said he knew all three men personally and considered that any one of them would be well qualified for the appellate court job, which pays $16,000 a year, $2,000 more than Hunter now gets as a circuit judge.

The governor said he had known Hunter ever since he was a boy growing up in Jefferson City, where his family moved from New Madrid County when he was seven years old.

Hunter was appointed a circuit judge by former Gov. Forrest Smith in December, 1951. He was re-elected to a six year term in 1954 and since then has sat with the St. Louis Court of Appeals on numerous assignments by the Supreme Court.

Before going on the bench, he also served on the Kansas City election and police boards under Gov. Smith. His police board appointment came after the Binaggio-Gargotta murders when the police department was going through a turbulent period.

Hunter's rise in the legal profession has been steady since his graduation from the University of Missouri Law School with high scholastic honors.

The same year he became U. S. Circuit Judge Kimbrough Stone's law clerk. Later he was senior assistant city counselor in Kansas City and special assistant U. S. attorney trying war fraud cases.

He is now a member of the Missouri Bar and the American Bar Association.

He is married and has two children.

He was born in St. Louis and moved to Jefferson City in 1910.

He attended the University of Missouri and the University of Kansas.

He was a member of the St. Louis Bar and the American Bar Association.

Man Spends 21 Hours Caught Between Tree And Door of Truck

MARSHALLVILLE, Ga. (AP)—Frank Hester, 49, spent 21 hours trapped between a tree and the door of a truck.

Doctors at Peach County Hospital in nearby Fort Valley said Hester suffered a badly mangled left arm, shock and exposure, but was getting along "satisfactorily."

Hester was reading meters for the Flint Electric Membership Corp. Saturday. He stopped his two-way radio-equipped truck and got out to look at a meter. The truck began to roll and an open door pinned him to a tree.

Mystery Russian Patient

Officials Discount Kaganovich Report, But Reveal Nothing

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet officials and diplomatic sources today discounted a report that a mystery patient in a Moscow hospital is Deputy Premier Lazar M. Kaganovich. But there still was no disclosure of the stricken man's identity.

An eminent German blood specialist flown here to help treat the patient, presumably a high Soviet official, described him as in critical condition. The doctor said he was not informed of the ailing man's identity and did not recognize him.

It was pointed out that Kaganovich, a member of the Soviet Presidium, has been on a "grass roots" tour of Siberian cement plants recently. The German doctor reported that the unidentified patient had been ill for at least two weeks.

East Germany's official radio said today that Kaganovich visited a Soviet cement factory near Chelyabinsk, in southwest Siberia, over the weekend.

The opening tomorrow of the Supreme Soviet, Russia's Parliament, may give an opportunity to find out who he is.

Not even the German blood specialist summoned on the case, Dr. Hans Joachim Schulten of Cologne, knew the patient's name.

When Schulten was summoned, there was speculation the patient might be Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov, ailing for nearly two weeks. High Soviet officials said the sick man was not Shepilov or any member of the Communist party's powerful Presidium, successor to the old Politburo.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman said Shepilov had recovered and was resting near Moscow.

The New York Daily News said in a dispatch from Washington that the mysterious patient was Soviet First Deputy Premier Lazar M. Kaganovich and that he was shot in a behind-the-scenes struggle for power in the Kremlin.

The News quoted "intelligence sources" for its story. It said: "Kaganovich, 64 and the only Jew left in the Soviet hierarchy, represented the 'hard-core Stalinists' who wanted to oust Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev and Premier Bulganin."

Khrushchev and Bulganin got wind of the move and ordered Kaganovich killed, but something went wrong and he was only wounded. Kaganovich developed "blood poisoning" from the wound.

Two Persons Die in Wreck Early Sunday on Highway 65

Both Victims Were Pettis Countians

Car Fails to Make Curve, Slides Into Path of Other Auto

A crash of two cars on Highway 65, about 3½ miles south of Sedalia, claimed the lives of two persons and caused injuries to three others about 1:55 a.m. Sunday. The accident occurred just north of the curve in front of the L. H. "Slim" Meyers Salvage Co.

Dead:

William Frederick Wehmeyer, 67, Route 2, Sedalia, of a broken neck and skull fracture. He was a passenger in one car.

Eddie Lee Sprinkle, 23, Route 1, LaMonte, died of a crushed chest. He was driver of one of the cars.

Injured:

Cletus Dillingham, 21, St. Francis Hotel, received severe cuts of the face, bruises of the right cheek and eye, and cuts on the right leg. Dillingham was the driver of the other car.

Mrs. Rose Nadine Wehmeyer, 45, wife of the dead man, suffered cuts of the left cheek, three deep cuts of the right knee, fractured ribs on the right side, a fractured right hand and shock.

Mrs. Barbara June White, 19, Route 4, Springfield, received a cut on the lower lip, bruises about the face and body, and bruises to both knees. She complained of a stomach injury. She is the wife of Harold White, stationed in the Panama Canal Zone.

Ambulances from McLaughlin's, Ewing's and Gillespie's brought the injured to Sedalia, Dillingham and Mrs. White being taken to Bothwell Hospital and Mrs. Wehmeyer to Woodland Hospital. Wehmeyer was taken to the Bothwell Hospital and was pronounced dead on arrival. Dr. John Lamy attended Dillingham and Dr. Carl Siegel Mrs. White, while Mrs. Wehmeyer was treated by Dr. R. A. Enochs.

Mrs. White was transferred to St. John's Hospital, Springfield, Sunday, in the McLaughlin ambulance.

The Wehmeyers and Dillingham had been to Moon Light at the Cole Camp Junction of Highways 65 and 52 and were enroute back to Sedalia. Dillingham was driving and Mr. and Mrs. Wehmeyer were riding in the front seat with him, Wehmeyer asleep.

Dillingham told Trooper Richard Joos, of the State Highway Patrol, he was driving about 60 miles per hour. He said, "We started around the curve, the pavement must have been wet and the car started skidding and sliding sideways. We hit a ditch or something and that's all I remember."

The supposition of how the accident occurred by officers is that the car did start sliding sideways, left the pavement on the left side of the highway and skidded in the mud on the Meyer driveway. This was borne out by the fact a car parked in front of the Salvage Co. building was sprayed with mud. Mud and gravel was thrown more than 30 feet against the east side of the building.

The car was believed to have

To the left, Cletus Dillingham, 21, driver of the car in the background, is being eased by Mrs. Lyle Sipes, 1023 East Fourth, a sister of Mrs. Wehmeyer. Mrs. Sipes was riding in a second car with her husband when they came upon the accident.

Says Demos Have Drouth Relief Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) said today the Democratic-controlled Congress will push its own drought relief program.

"The program sponsored by the administration thus far has been inadequate," Johnson said in a statement, "and unless we act soon the whole nation will lose priceless riches in soil fertility."

Johnson, the Senate Democratic leader, said he had asked the Senate Agriculture Committee "to schedule hearings as soon as possible on my drought relief bill."

President Eisenhower, who recently made a flying tour of drought areas, asked Congress for an additional 76 million dollars to aid hard-pressed farmers and ranchers between now and June 30.

The House Appropriations Committee cut this to 50 millions and the House will consider the bill tomorrow.

Investigators Rove Island, Seeking Clues to Plane Crash

NEW YORK (AP)—Investigators roved Rikers Island today, closely examining scattered bits of wreckage in an on-the-spot hunt for clues as to the cause of a Northeast airliner crash that killed 20 people.

Instruments and other parts of the plane were "spread all over" the island, an investigator said. None of the fragments has yet been moved, so as to permit measurement of distances between them.

The plane crashed on the island in the East River, about a quarter mile from La Guardia Field, 12 seconds after its takeoff in a snowstorm Friday night with 101 persons aboard.

A dozen expert investigators took a police launch to the island today, and began the minute, painstaking inspection of the remaining structure of the plane, and the widely strewn sections.

Capt. Alva R. Marsh, pilot of the plane, says he doesn't know what caused the crash.

Marsh's account of the crash was relayed to newsmen yesterday by Alfred A. Lane, vice president of Northeast Airlines. The 48-year-old veteran pilot is being kept "in seclusion" by the airline at an undisclosed location.

"I didn't know anything was wrong," Marsh said, until copilot Basil Dixwell "informed me the ground was coming up at us."

"I was looking at the instruments at the time. They were all working properly," he added.

More than half of the survivors were injured. Thirty-six remain in three hospitals, 14 of them on a critical list. Five victims were identified yesterday, bringing to 13 the number identified thus far.

The Marsh account contrasted with earlier remarks attributed to him that he experienced a "loss of power" immediately after taking off for Miami, the plane's destination.

Marsh also had been quoted after the crash as saying he thought the airplane had struck a pole on the island.

Asked yesterday if he had been attempting to turn back to La Guardia Field after the takeoff,

Old Indian Fighter, 96, Dies in Texas

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Harry H. Halsell, 96, trail driver, Indian fighter and author who credited his long life to numerous guns and the ability to use them, died quietly in his home here yesterday.

Halsell, who said he got his first six-shooter when he was 7, was born Oct. 1, 1860, in Clarksville, Tex., and ranched in Texas and New Mexico many years.

Later he became an author and wrote nine books, including an autobiography, about life on the cattle trails in the 19th century.

"I realize now," he wrote in 1941, "that for three decades, from 1870 to 1900, the habit of being well armed saved my life on several occasions."

By the age of 11, he was a regular hand helping his father drive cattle north from Texas. He once helped drive a herd down Commerce Street here when Fort Worth was a frontier town.

On several occasions, he used his six-guns and rifle to fight off Indians. His wife helped.

Halsell said one of his closest scrapes came on Christmas Eve, 1880, in southwestern New Mexico.

He had driven his stock into a small valley with only one entrance and bedded them down. Near midnight he spotted a group of Apaches riding toward him in the moonlight.

Halsell said he mounted his horse, held the reins in his teeth and fired a six-gun in each hand as he charged the group. The Indians, believing a large band was attacking them, scattered and Halsell escaped. He said he later learned the famous Geronimo had been in the lead and the band had just ambushed a stage coach.

the front door again," Goldberg reported.

He said the man reached in his left pocket as if getting money to pay for the cigarettes. Apparently as Goldberg turned around he hit him a "rabbit punch" with the edge of his right hand, knocking Goldberg out. The cash box was emptied and Goldberg's billfold had been removed from his pocket and $3 taken from it. Among the receipts were three checks, which the man also took.

The man did not remove approximately $15 in change from the cash register which was open. Missing were $120 in 20-dollar bills, $190 in $10 bills, and more than $200 in $5 and $1 bills in the cash box along with the three checks.

Shortly before noon a 1950 Chevrolet car which had been reported stolen at the Whiteman Air Force Base was recovered in front of 611 West Third, by the police. A check is being made to ascertain if the car may have been one used in the robbery.

Border States Flood Eases, South Suffers

By The Associated Press
Flooding of lowlands along rivers in Alabama, Georgia and Mississippi is expected to increase Monday while unspectacular but vital cleanup operations surge ahead in flood-ravaged areas of West Virginia, Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Death of a lineman electrocuted while making repairs on a utility pole in Kentucky brought to 15 the number of lives claimed by the devastating floods.

Damage was estimated at more than 75 million dollars. At least 15,000 were homeless. Many thousands more were idle. Washed out roads and bridges, piled up debris and just plain mud made it difficult and often impossible for workers to get to their jobs.

Virginia authorities were preparing to send doctors and nurses into hard-hit southwest Virginia. Plans also were being made to open typhoid clinics at a number of places. Water systems were being checked for purity as rapidly as possible.

The Coosa River passed flood stage at Gadsden, Ala., while other rain-soaked north and central Alabama streams remained over their banks. The Tennessee River inundated many miles of lowlands along its winding course. Extensive flooding of low sections was expected to continue for several days. But no danger to commercial buildings and residences was seen.

Seven families were driven from their homes in low sections of Resaca, a northwest Georgia town of 325 persons, Sunday night as the Oostanaula River rose slightly above flood stage. The river stood at 30.2 feet and was still rising, Police Chief R. C. Hayes reported. Flood stage is 29 feet.

The Tombigbee River was expected to crest at Columbus, Miss., at 8 p.m. Tuesday at a height of 34 feet.

Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, president of the American Red Cross, estimated the homeless at 15,000. He also said "the worst appears to be over" in West Virginia, Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Ex-Sedalian Appears On Bob Crosby Show

A number of Sedalians were pleased Thursday afternoon to see Andy Kosteles on the Bob Crosby program on television.

Kosteles, who resided at 228 South Montauk when the family lived in Sedalia, Andy played the clarinet in the Smith-Cotton High School Band and went on with his music after graduating from high school. He has received a great deal of recognition as a musician in California and has played with well known bands there.

Gore Drafting Bill to Limit Campaign Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Gore (D-Tenn) said today he is drafting legislation to limit the amount any single individual can contribute to political campaigns in any year.

Without any direct reference to Gore's announcement, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the majority leader, predicted Congress will act on "a comprehensive revision of the election laws." Gore headed a Senate Elections subcommittee which reported during the weekend that the 1956 general election cost at least $33,187,725.

That was the total only of "direct expenditures" the subcommittee said it could trace down. The actual outlay, it added, "far surpasses that figure."

Total contributions from individual persons ran as high as the $73,164 reported by Lansdell K. Christie of New York.

Gore said in an interview Congress ought to move swiftly into this field.

"My bill will propose that the amount any person can contribute to political campaigns — and that would include all political committees — be limited each year and that each contribution be reported to Congress," he said.

CONSTIPATED? new laxative discovery un-locks bowel blocks without gag, bloat or gripe

Constipation is caused by what doctors call a "thrifty" colon. A "thrifty" colon is one that, instead of retaining moisture as it should, does the opposite: robs the colon of so much moisture that its contents become dehydrated, so dry that they block the bowel; so shrunken that they fail to exert or stimulate the urge to purge that propels and expels waste from your body.

TO REGAIN NORMAL REGULARITY two things are necessary. First, the dry, shrunken contents of your colon which now block your bowel must be re-moistened. Second, bulk must be brought to your colon to S-T-R-E-T-C-H STIMULATE it and so, excite its muscles to action; to a normal urge to purge.

AND, OF ALL LAXATIVES, only COLONOID, the amazing new laxative discovery possesses COLONOID's great moisturizing capacity plus COLONOID's stretch-stimulating bulk that activates normal colonic reflexes. So effective that it relieves even chronic constipation overnight, COLONOID is yet so smooth, so gentle it has been proved safe even for women in the most critical stages of pregnancy. SUPERIOR TO OLD STYLE bulk, salt or drug laxatives, COLONOID neither gags, bloats nor gripes; does not interfere with your absorption of vitamins and other valuable food nutrients; and in clinical tests, did not cause rash or other side reactions. IT'S A PHYSIOLOGICAL FACT. Exercise tones your body! And COLONOID exercises your colon to tone it against constipation, overnight! Whether occasional, frequent or chronic, whatever your degree of constipation, get COLONOID, in easy-to-take tablet form at any drug counter, today! The price, only 98c for the economical 60 tablet package, brings you positive relief at less than 2c per tablet.

Capitalist Exploitation

An English dramatist once referred to woman as "one of Nature's agreeable blunders".

We take it that is a compliment which might be as puzzling to a Russian as the fact that the so-called American capitalist is a woman.

There was an interesting item on this subject in Taxpayer's Dollar, a publication of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. The reference to woman as a capitalist was result of a survey which produced the fact that women share owners — notably housewives and non-employed — now outnumber men.

The same survey also produced a number of other facts which must have shocked the Communists — inasmuch as Communist doctrine is based on the theory that capitalism mercilessly exploits and impoverishes the many while vastly enriching the few.

Here are some of those facts: Close to 9 million individuals own stocks in our corporations. Two-thirds of them all have annual incomes of less than $7,500. The typical shareholder is 48 years old — four years younger than was the case four years ago, when a similar survey was made. The greatest growth in share ownership has taken place not in the great cities and centers of finance, but in the smaller communities — those of from 2,500 to 26,000 population, like Sedalia.

If we are creating a "People's Capitalism" the charge is as accurate as it is vivid. It simply means that we have a system in which millions of people can use a part of their savings to buy a personal interest in American enterprise, that their incomes are enough to permit such investment — and that more and more people are taking advantage of the opportunity.

If this is capitalistic exploitation of the masses, the whole world needs a lot more of it.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Reversal on Probe of State Department

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—One of the healthiest recent decisions of the Senate is to investigate American policy in the Near East, dating back to the Truman administration. The decision was reached after a closed-door debate that the public doesn't know about.

For some time Republican senators had argued, both privately and publicly, against any probe of Dulles's policies. Senator Aiken of Vermont argued that such a probe would be dangerous, would destroy the Secretary of State. Senator Fulbright of Arkansas, who initiated the idea, argued that if such an investigation would destroy him, then Dulles's policies were seriously lacking.

Finally, in closed-door session, Sen. Dick Russell of Georgia spoke up, calm and brief. He had not said much before.

"Now, Gentlemen," he asked, "do you really wish this country to believe that you don't want the people to know about the conduct of our foreign affairs? Do you want this to be a strict party vote against any investigation?"

There was a sudden hush on the Republican side, followed by whispers. GOP senators suggested a delay of 48 hours, then 24 hours, obviously to consult. Finally they agreed to come back at 10 a.m. next day.

At that time they voted unanimously to proceed with the full investigation of the Near East under both Eisenhower and Truman.

Why U.S. Base?

This column would be delighted to suggest to the Senators where they can get some important information. Part of it is covered with dust right in their own files. Very important, for instance, is why the U. S. air base in Saudi Arabia was actually established.

President Eisenhower discussed with King Saud last week a renewed lease on this base, and it was reported that the king wanted a sizeable amount of American arms in return. However, Senate records of the old Brewster investigating committee show good reason to believe that this base was originally established not because it was of any military value, but to please the American oil companies which already have reaped a fortune from Saudi Arabia.

Senators will find in their files a report by Brigadier General Donald P. Booth, assistant to the undersecretary of war, dated 1946, which is classified secret. To it, General Booth attached the following warning:

"It is believed particularly important that this classification (secret) be respected. If there is any part of the subject matter which you wish to declassify for publication, it is requested that the matter be referred to the War Department and the State Department for clearance."

I can reveal, however, that Booth's report showed that the British in July 1944 blocked the U.S. base until May 5, 1945 on the ground that they, the British, already had four bases in Arabia which we could use. May 5, 1945, was one day before the war ended in Europe. And on that day it was decided to go ahead with the Dhahran base on the belief that it would cut off air miles in flying from Cairo to Karachi.

State Department Wanted Base

One week later, the war in Europe being over, the War Department suddenly reversed itself and wanted to cancel the Saudi Arabian base. It saw no reason for it. But the State Department argued otherwise. For reasons not specified but understood to be the protection of American oil companies, the State Department demanded that the base be built.

The State Department carried the argument up to President Truman, and on Sept. 28, 1945, he okayed the base, provided a new contract was drawn, giving the United States all postwar air rights, and provided Congress voted the necessary funds.

However, Sen. Owen Brewster of Maine, then head of the Senate investigating committee, was unable to find that Congress had ever authorized the $4,000,000 spent on the base. Furthermore, he reported that no new contract was drawn.

"The Army presented King Ibn Saud with an airplane," Brewster remarked at that time, "and it looked as if the airfield was built to please the king—so his plane would have a place to land."

Senator Brewster also turned up amazing evidence showing how the oil companies dominated American policy in the Near East. This will be described in a subsequent column.

NOTE—Since then, a ring of American bases has been built in Turkey, just as close, if not closer to Russia, than Saudi Arabia. The United States also holds a series of bases in Greece, almost as close to Russia. All this makes it appear that the Saudi Arabian base is even less necessary today than when the War Department turned thumbs down in 1945. The real purpose, it appears, is to supply a base for the planes and personnel of the Arabian American Oil Company and have a protective American base near its property.

Truman Doctrine

Senators may also want to go back to another incident in the Truman administration—the manner in which Standard Oil of New Jersey and Standard Oil of New York purchased 40 per cent of the Arabian American Oil Company just a few days before President Truman announced his Truman doctrine for Greece and Turkey.

The question is: Did they know this doctrine was coming? Or did they inspire the doctrine? Or was their timing just a coincidence? The doctrine was aimed at blocking Russia from penetrating down to Suez and the eastern end of the Mediterranean—just as the Dulles doctrine is today.

Another point which Senator Brewster investigated during the Truman administration was the American oil shortage of 1947 and the resultant import of oil from the Near East.

Brewster claimed that the 1947 oil shortage in the U.S.A. was a phony, had been arranged by the big oil companies in order to convince the American public of the necessity of importing half a million barrels of Arabian oil, which in turn emphasized the importance of spending American dollars to protect American oil interests in the Near East.

Never-Ending Spy Hunt

No realist imagines that spying by a potential enemy ceases simply because a few of his agents have been caught—even though they be key ones.

Soviet spying in the United States did not end with the capture, conviction and execution of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg. It merely proceeded along other avenues, with different people performing Moscow's chores.

The ever-alert FBI now has seized three more Red agents, Jack and Myra Sobel and Jacob Albam. They are charged with conspiring to steal documents "connected with the national defense of the United States."

There were indications the trio had links with a spy apparatus which had operated in Washington during World War II under one V. M. Zubilin, then a Soviet embassy secretary. The latter is no longer in this country.

According to the FBI, Sobel is his replacement and a "dominant figure in the ring" presumed to be functioning currently within our borders.

Again, no matter how these people make out in court, this is not the end of Russian spying on our soil. There will be others.

Nevertheless, we can be grateful that the FBI maintains ceaseless vigilance and succeeds so frequently and effectively in disrupting Soviet espionage activities. It cannot be much comfort to Moscow that an American agency exists which so often wrecks its delicately contrived spy network.

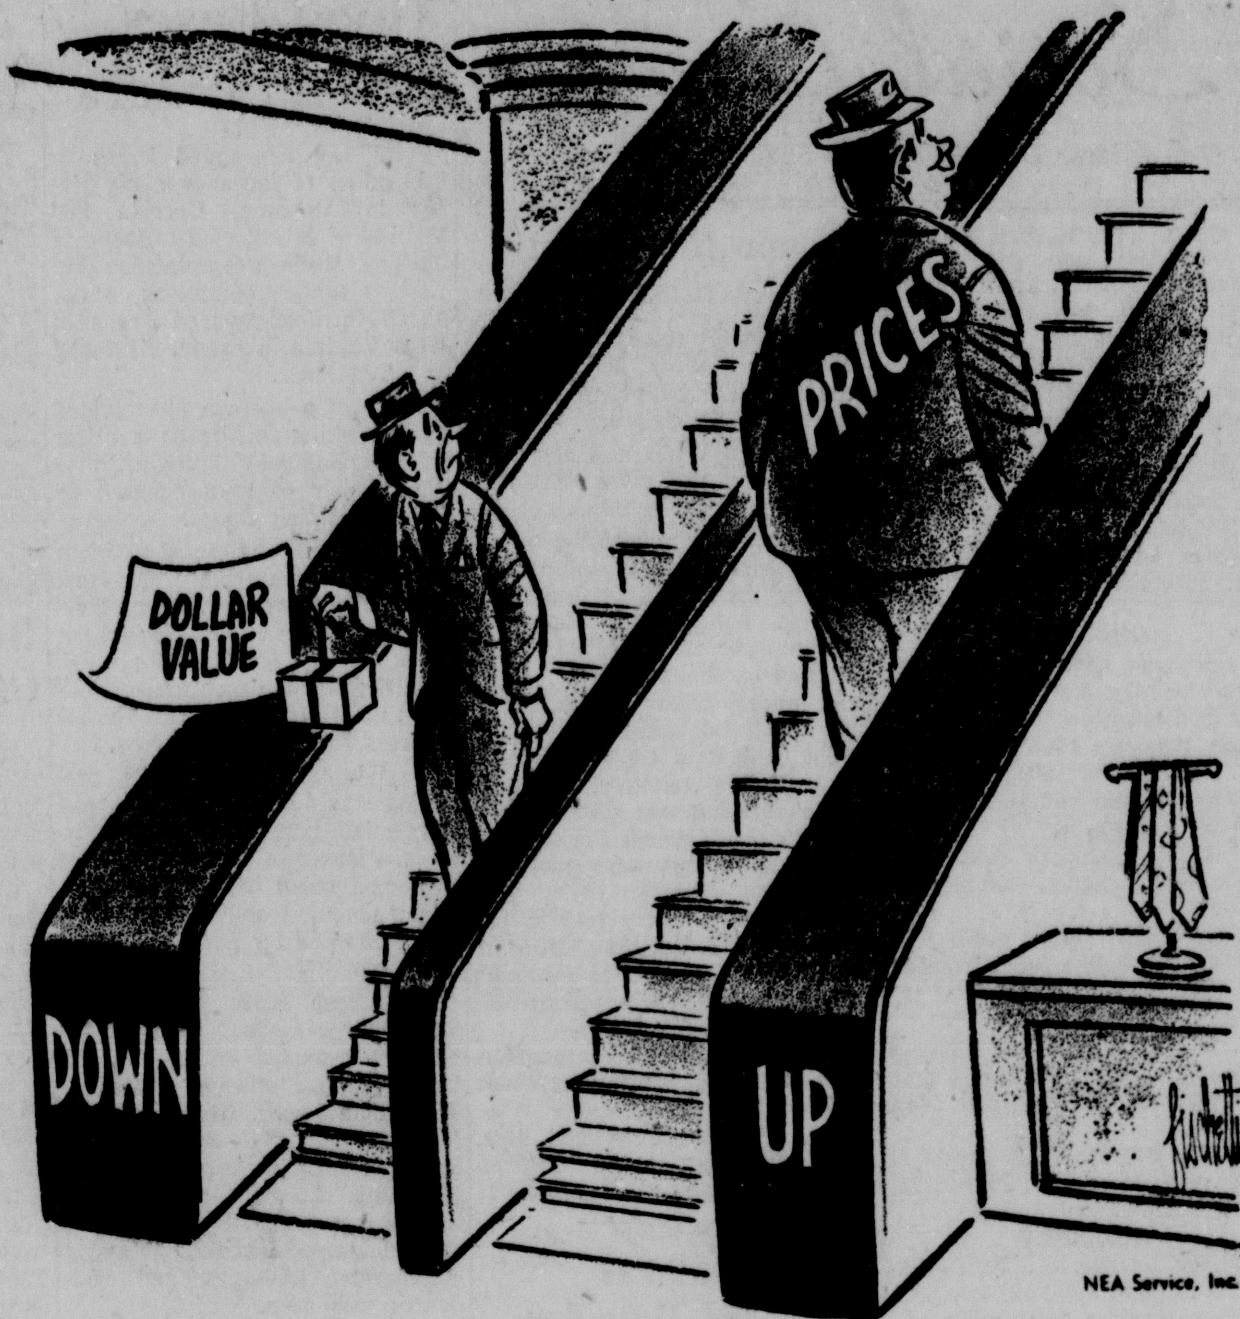

Opium is obtained from the milky juice of the young capsule of the poppy plant where the seeds develop.

The World Today

Torn Between Foreign, Domestic Policy

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration, on the subject of oil needed for Europe, is carrying water, or perhaps oil, on both shoulders.

It wants American producers and oil-producing states, particularly Texas, to make more oil available for Europe, which has run short since the Suez Canal was closed.

The administration set goals which haven't been met. But it won't crack down on the companies or the states. Administration officials say they don't want to interfere with states' rights.

So it is torn between foreign policy and domestic policy, between international cooperation and states' rights. But that's only part of a badly mixed-up picture:

Before the canal was closed, Europe used about 3,200,000 barrels of oil a day. It got that oil from European wells, from the Middle East, from wells in the Caribbean, and a very small amount from the United States.

Before Suez it needed practically no oil from the United States. Most of its supply came from the Middle East, and moved through pipe lines and in tankers that made a quick run through the Suez Canal.

After the canal was closed Europe stepped up the production of its own oil and routed tanker shipments from the Middle East around Africa.

But there is still such a shortage, administration officials say, that this country has to fill the gap in a big way.

Europe can ration gasoline, but it needs other oil products to keep its economy going, especially through the next 60 days or so of cold weather. Bad shortages could force industrial close-downs and shove Europe into an economic tailspin.

The administration has set a goal of 500,000 barrels of crude oil and fuels a day from this country. (Before Suez this country shipped about 50,000 barrels of oil products a day.) But American companies have been sending an average of no more than 300,000 barrels a day in recent weeks.

This writer saw Interior Department figures indicating Europe could use 800,000 barrels a day from this country. But he was told these were not "solid" figures. He got different figures from the State Department but was instructed not to rely on them either, because they were not "official."

Hugh Stewart, director of the Interior Department's Oil and Gas Division, was asked at a news conference last Friday if he could provide figures showing exactly how much oil Europe was getting from outside the United States and precisely how much it needed from this country.

He said he had no "solid" figures, but expected to receive some this week. Meantime, he said, the administration was depending on what it considered reasonable estimates.

Within this country, there is conflict between the big oil companies which have major overseas interests, and the independent producers, who sell largely in local markets. If there is overproduction of oil, the price probably would go down.

Texas would have to be the major source of added supplies. The Texas Railroad Commission—that state's regulatory body which sets the limits on how much oil can be taken out of the ground — is not, in the opinion of the administration, as "generous" as it might be.

HIGHLIGHTS AND SIDELIGHTS FROM YOUR STATE CAPITOL

Rep. James A. Noland, Jr. (R-Camden county), estimates that nearly $100 million would be needed to pay for a state veterans bonus proposed in a constitutional amendment he introduced recently.

The proposal would pay a top bonus of $300 for service in the United States and $500 for overseas service during World War II and the Korean conflict. According to Noland, the proposal could be financed through a state bond issue which would be retired by increased taxes on beer, tobacco and juke boxes.

Noland said he had not been consulted about the proposal by any veterans organizations. He said he introduced the proposal because he had been requested to do so by some of his Camden county constituents.

A $1,000 a year salary increase would be given to circuit clerks in third and fourth class counties under a bill proposed in the house of representatives by Rep. Charles Pulis (D-Audrain county).

Pulis said he introduced the salary measure to make it easier to get qualified candidates in the smaller counties. He said it is a problem in Audrain county to find anyone to seek the office of circuit clerk because of the low salary.

Salary ranges proposed in Pulis' bill would be from $4600 to $5800 a year in third class counties with separate circuit clerks and recorders; $4200 to $6000 a year in third class counties with combined clerks and recorders, and $2200-$3100 in fourth class counties.

A small feud is expected between the house and senate over what to do with the 86-year-old executive mansion in Jefferson City.

Gov. James T. Blair, who owns a home in Jefferson City, has recently introduced a resolution requesting a house-senate investigation to determine the cost of repairs "in order that the historic dignity of the mansion may be retained and that at the same time it may be a comfortable home for future governors and their families."

No action was taken on the proposal which was offered by Mrs. Clara Speer (R-Jackson county); Mrs. Agnes Moore (D-St. Genevieve county); Mrs. Evelyn G. Stone (D-St. Louis); Mrs. Icie Mae Pope (R-Webster county), and Miss Jennie Chinn (D-Shelby county).

Why Ike Keeps Dulles

Sacking Subordinates Will Not Appease Critics

By Joseph A. Dear
Of Our Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON — It looks like John Foster Dulles is going the way of Dean Acheson.

Dulles is the Secretary of State who was going to get on with Congress. He wouldn't repeat Acheson's mistakes. And Dulles never has missed a chance to make a pleasing gesture toward Capitol Hill.

All to no avail. The Senators and Congressmen seem bent on increasing Secretary Dulles' discomfort. Oddly enough, Dulles is receiving precious little effective support from his own party on the Hill. That's the way it was with Acheson, too.

Even the talk has a familiar ring. The Democrats will make peace if Ike dispenses with Dulles, it's said. But like, why he's loyal to his subordinates, it's said, and he'll back them. Just what they said about Harry Truman and Acheson.

No President could appease critics by sacking subordinates. A retreat in the face of political attack would merely encourage detractors to greater effort. For that very practical reason, neither Mr. Truman nor Mr. Eisenhower could seriously consider the dismissal of their man in the State Department. The assault on Acheson was aimed at Mr. Truman. The attack on Dulles is directed at Mr. Eisenhower. Ike knows that, as did Harry Truman.

Is there any path that would please Congress? Ike, mindful of the ex-post facto resentment expressed by Congress at Mr. Truman's failure to solicit its endorsement of his ordering our troops to resist aggression in Korea, has gone before Congress to win its consent in advance. If the Eisenhower Doctrine is approved, the Congress will have given prior approval to the employment of United States military forces in the Middle East to block communist aggression in that area. Many members, and of both parties, argue that Congress would be relinquishing its right of declaring war by passing the resolution. That rangles. Any request from the Executive Department that might diminish the authority of the Congress rangles.

Also Congress would have it known that the Eisenhower Doctrine might diminish the powers of the Presidential office. At least, that's what Senator Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) said. If Ike insists on these prior consent resolutions, he may establish a precedent which would lessen the President's power as Commander and Chief of the military.

Whenever the President asks for foreign aid funds now, Congress is somewhat reticent. There have been so many requests for foreign aid. But when the President says he wants money to spend overseas as he sees fit, Congress is positively incensed. And Ike is asking $200 million on that basis.

What fascinating fare this will be for the visiting potentate from Arabia, King Saud. He got a chilly reception in New York, whose officials cut him. And he'll get a chilly reception here once it gets about that it's money he's after.

Saud got about $230 million in oil revenues last year. His air conditioned Cadillac, private railway, concubines, slaves, and fabulous court of 10,000 retainers have given him a certain notoriety. He controls a big air base we built for him, and which we want to lease. He won't permit Americans of Jewish persuasion to set foot on it.

Still, he's a fellow the State Department has to do business with because he's the only guy there. The Department might prefer a non-slave owning monogamist, but there is none. The deceptive thing about Saudi Arabia is the frosting of modernity that oil made possible. Actually, its social structure is pre-Middle Ages. It has not reached the point of development attained by the United States at the time of the Civil War, and there was slavery here then.

No resolutions were offered in Congress enjoining the President not to invite Saud. But there have been several expressing indignation about the rumored plan to invite Boss Tito of Yugoslavia.

Tito is a communist. He has been responsible for the death of American boys. But he did break with Moscow once; he is willing to talk with us now; and our experts figure the percentage favors the play. The Congressmen signing the anti-Tito petitions know this, but they sign anyhow.

It's a variation of the game "Let's get Dulles," because the same arguments advanced against inviting Tito might be made against the appointment of Gen. Speidel to the command of NATO ground forces. Speidel is German, and fought us in Normandy. Without doubt he was directly responsible for many American casualties.

The Congressmen and Senators aren't all sore at Dulles, though his popularity isn't high. It's probable that in a sense they are reflecting the frustration of all Americans with the continuing crisis, which worsens in spite of our vast expenditures.

So long as the crisis continues and demands are put upon the country to finance a solution, the position of Secretary of State is likely to be the shortest path to political unpopularity and oblivion.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D.

"What's the use?" is a question which springs from the lips of the discouraged, the disheartened or the disillusioned person. More people utter these words of despair than we realize.

Many try to do the right thing and are misunderstood. People try to explain circumstances only to be doubted. Some describe absolute facts only to be accused of falsehood. Others disparage by implication.

Is it any wonder that those who are honest, those who are decent, those who are fair, should sometimes become discouraged? And the doubters, the critics, the slanderers are frequently "seeing their own sins" in other people?

In this nation which is built on a supposedly Christian foundation let us live up to the basic principles of love, and sympathy and fairness.

Happy Returns

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Ward Keesecker called on Rep. Will Neal (R-WVa.) to congratulate him upon his reelection to Congress after a two-year lapse, and to hand over an overcoat and pair of gloves.

Neal had left coat and gloves behind in Jakarta, Indonesia, 2½ years ago while on a tour. Keesecker was on detached foreign service at Jakarta at the time.

Meat-Type Hogs Will Be Subject On February 12

The emphasis at hog markets is on the meat type hog. No one wants the lard type hog because there is no market for the lard.

If sows and gilts are fairly long and stretchy the use of a good meat type boar can result in some good market hogs. On the other hand if the sows and gilts are short and dumpy it will be better to get new stock rather than try to change the type with even an extreme meat type boar.

A meeting on meat type hogs is being held at the fairgrounds on Tuesday, Feb. 12. Better yet, there will be at least ten different breeds of hogs on exhibit. In addition there will be an exhibit of No. 1, 2 and 3 grades of meat type market hogs selected from one of our crossbred herds.

This meeting as stated above, is entirely an exhibit and the boars will not be judged against each other. Those who have promised to bring boars include W. P. Nicholson, Berkshire; Orin Chappell, Chester White; Joe Bill Reid, Hampshire; and Leonard DeBord, Landrace.

Paul Stephens, Minnesota No. 1; Bill Stephens, Minnesota No. 2; Cloyd Leftwich, Minnesota - Montana Cross; R. D. Kahrs, Poland China; Bruce Richey, Tamworth; and George Mehan, Yorkshire. Tom Ream has been crossing Hampshires with Minnesota and then with a Minnesota - Montana cross. He has volunteered to bring in some market hogs from that cross.

The meeting will be in the Hereford building and will start at 1:30. William Pugh, extension animal husbandman, will assist with the meeting.

Soils, Crops Meeting Will Be Held Feb. 16

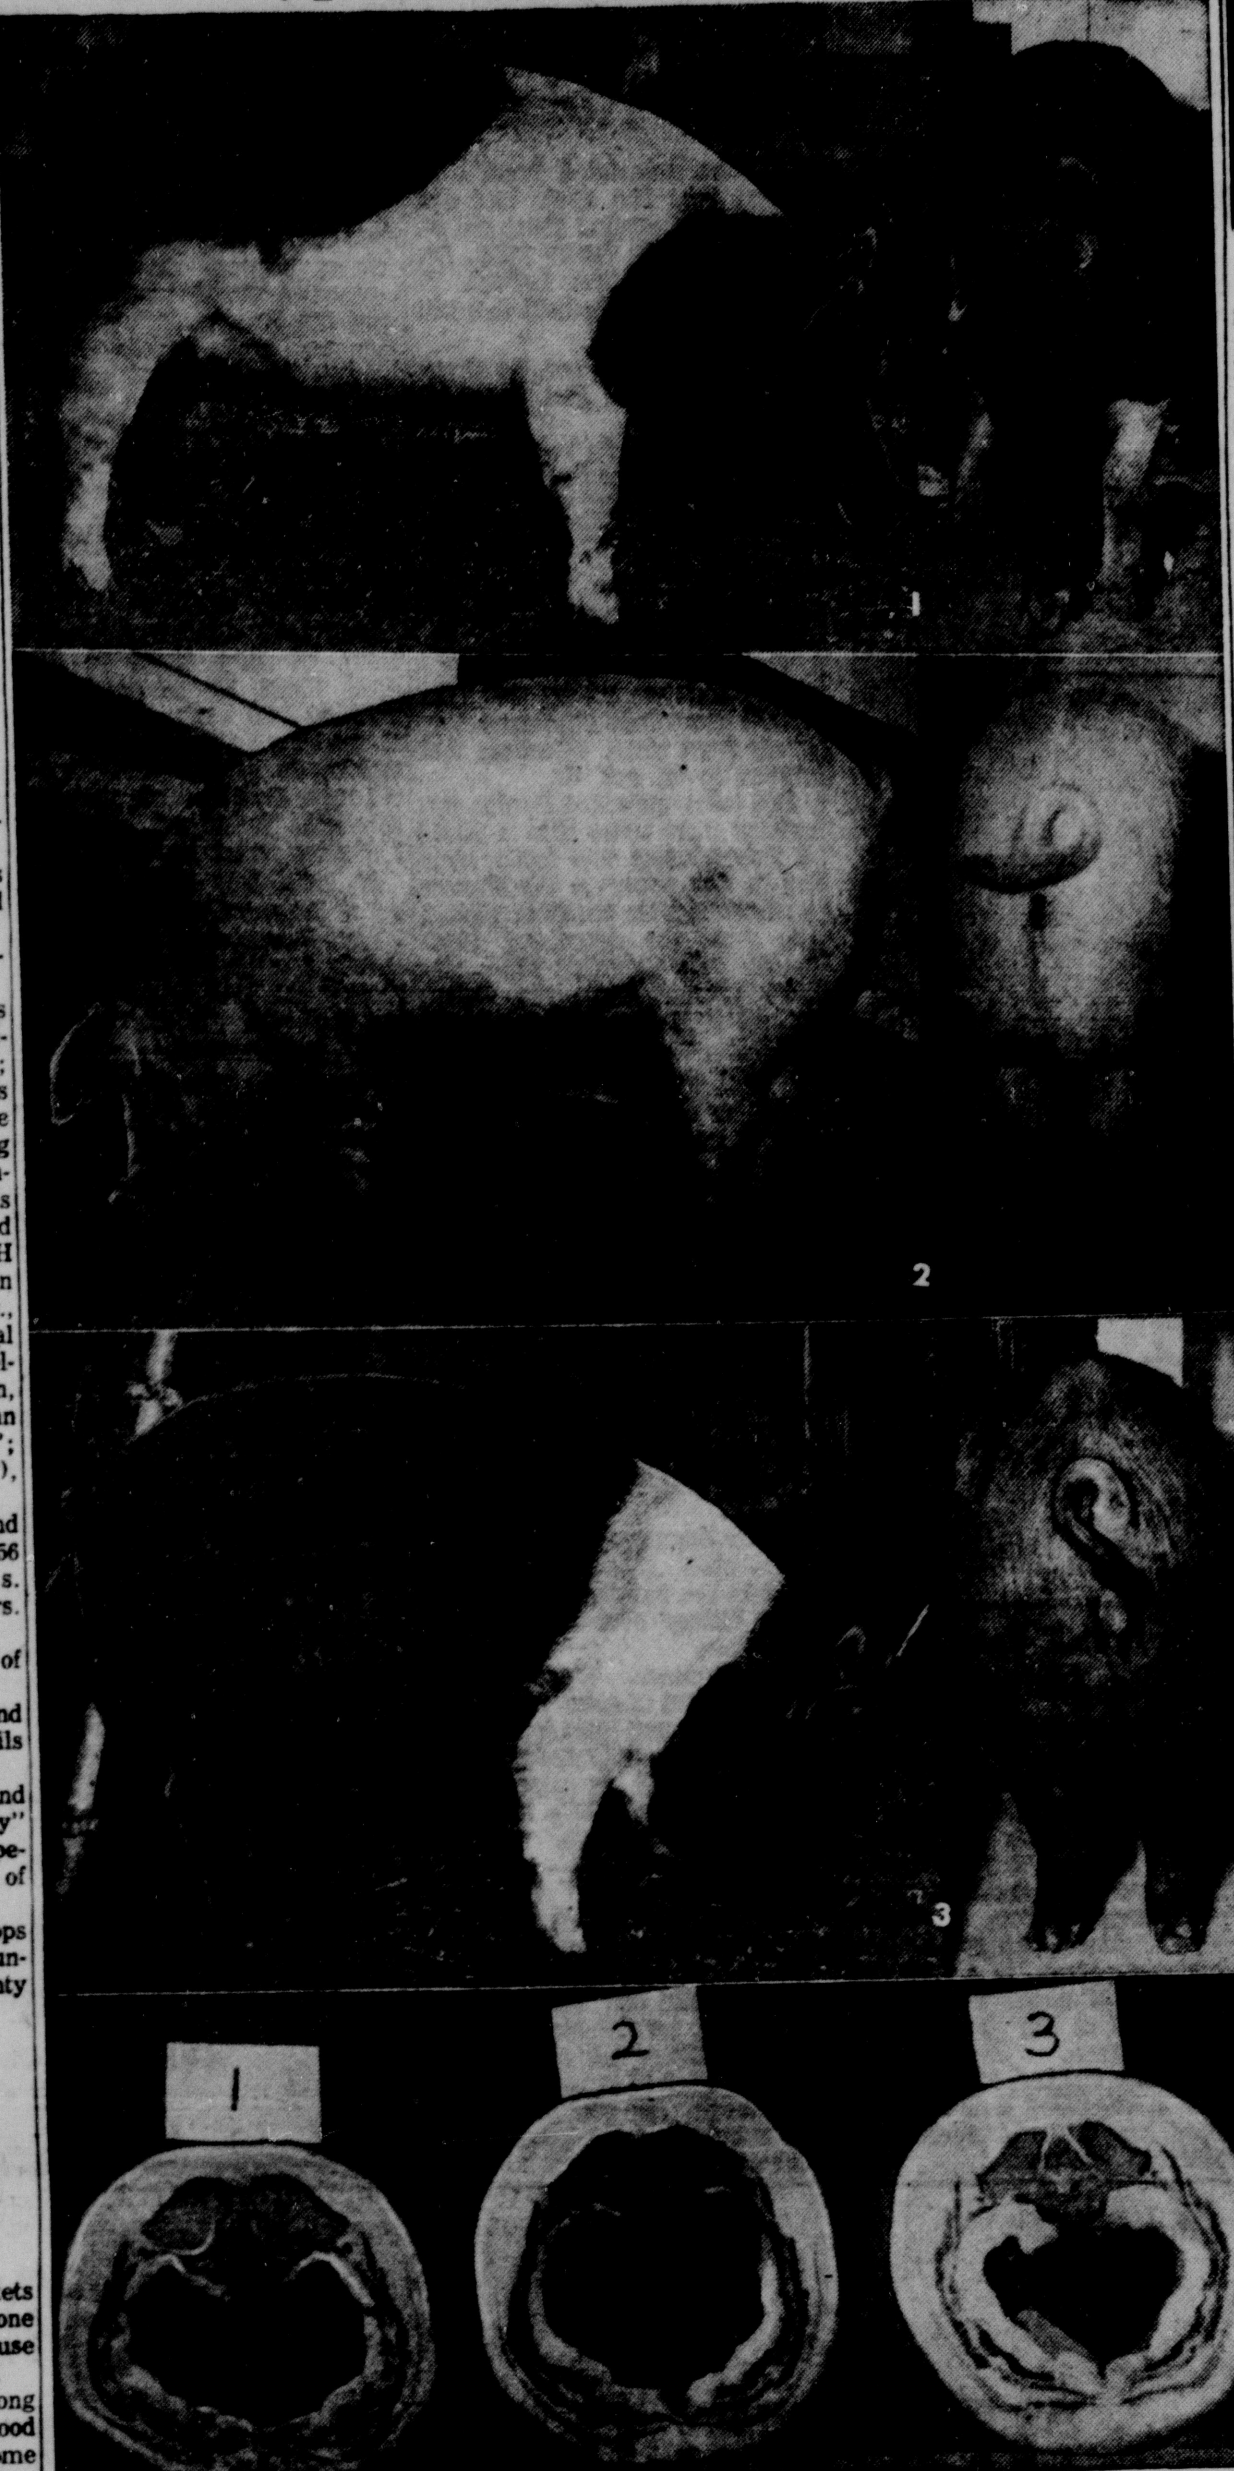

The 1957 Pettis County Soils and Crops Conference to be held on Feb. 16 at Sedalia will emphasize 1957 feed production needs in Pettis County.

The Soils and Crops Conference committee believes this year's program should deal with the growing of crops which can best meet the 1957 feed needs of many farmers.

Experiences of farmers as well as experiment station results indicate a number of ways to increase pasture, hay and silage production in 1957. Where pasture and meadow seedlings have failed, pasture, hay and silage needs can still be met through use of soybeans, lespedeza, sweet clover, small grain and sudan grass, along with proper fertilization.

Emphasis will be placed on the use of crops along with proper fertilization to supplement those pastures and meadows that remain. Results and methods will be discussed by Pettis County farmers.

Meat-type---to Front In Hog Picture

UNIVERSITY EXPERIMENT—As shown above, the side and rear views of three hogs from the University of Missouri experimental herd show the range from the U.S. No. 1 hog at the top, through the U.S. No. 2 in the center, and the U.S. No. 3, third from the top. According to University specialists, the No. 1 gilt is a good representative of her grade, the No. 2 gilt is an excellent representative of that grade, and the No. 3 gilt slightly extreme although there are many similar hogs being marketed at the present time.

At the bottom, a cross-section of the three hog's carcasses at the tenth rib show the good and bad points of the three different grades. The cross section of the No. 1 hog, left, shows more meat and less fat than either of the other two cross sections. Measurements show that the No. 1 hog has 1.2 inches of backfat and five square inches of loin eye as compared to 1.7 inches of backfat with 4.41 square inches of loin eye in the No. 2 hog, center, and two inches of backfat and 3.48 square inches of loin eye in the No. 3 hog at the right.

Pasture and Silage Will Be Discussed

Many of the callers at the county extension office during the past few months have asked questions about crops that can be depended upon to produce pasture, hay or silage this next year and the proper fertilization of these crops. Because of this, according to County Agent Merle Vaughan, Sudan grass, lespedeza, small grains, sweet clover, soybeans, sorgo, and other supplementary crops and their fertility needs will be discussed at the County Annual Soils and Crops Conference. This meeting is to be held in Sedalia on Saturday, Feb. 16.

Brucellosis Testing Moves Ahead

The veterinarians' "Kick Off" meeting Thursday evening marked the start of the State's program in the County to make the County a Modified Certified Brucellosis Free Area.

Time will be important not only to the veterinarian doing the work but also to the farmer having the work done. Because of that, folks having cattle tested and vaccinated will be expected to use the veterinarian assigned to the area unless they are on Plan A. Even then it would save a trip for their own veterinarian if they let the one in the area do the testing.

We have been requested to mimeograph notification sheets at the office. These will be mailed or handed to cattle owners by the "line up man" working that area. These sheets indicate the half day that the veterinarian will be there. They request that the cattle be kept up and that the owner have help there to handle them.

In most neighborhoods it is expected that the folks to be visited in a half day will work together, each one helping the others.

I indicated in this column last week that calfhood vaccination was a requirement just as much as the blood testing. Also both of those jobs will be done at the same time. Adult animals will be blood tested and heifer calves (5-8 months) will be vaccinated.

It is expected that it may take 30 to 60 days to completely test a township. The more cooperation the veterinarian and line up man get from the cattle owners the faster it will go.

One farmer raised a question at "Kick Off" meeting about his cows just now starting to calving. He wanted to know whether he could hold any reactors until the calves were a little larger. The Federal veterinarians advised that he ask not to be tested until the calves were large enough to wean. The rules are that reactors go to slaughter within 15 days of testing and I believe indemnity is lost if they are not sold within that time.

We expect lots of questions to arise. However we hope that cattle owners will consider the welfare of their neighbors and of the county before they refuse to cooperate on the program.

Meat Type Boar Display

The ten boars to be seen at the hog exhibit February 12th will give a cross section of the lines of breeding available in the County. Crossing those lines provides so called "hybrid vigor" which means stronger pigs and more rapid gains. Extension livestock specialists recommend the use of three purebred lines to utilize that hybrid vigor. That way the cross bred gilts are mated to purebred boars. I was talking to Bruce Richey the other night. He mated his Hereford hogs with a Yorkshire boar. Now he is crossing the gilts from that cross with a Tamworth boar.

Orin Chappell has been using Chester White boars on Chester Whites and Hampshire sows. Stevens McClure is crossing Yorkshires and Chester Whites and Frank Sellers is using Minnesota boars on Duroc and Hampshire stock.

Some folks have a choice of color. There are sufficient breeds available so that three crosses can be made and stay with one color.

Marse Joe, Wahoo Sam Enshrined

NEW YORK (AP)—Marse Joe McCarthy and Wahoo Sam Crawford are the newest members of Baseball's Hall of Fame.

The jut-jawed Irishman who managed the New York Yankees to new heights without ever playing a game of major league ball and the left-handed outfielder who was a great power hitter in the "dead ball" days will be officially enshrined July 22 at Cooperstown, N.Y.

Paul Kerr, secretary of the 11-man veterans committee that picks new members on alternate years, announced the election of McCarthy and Crawford yesterday. There will be no further selections this year.

From Tonawanda, N.Y., came word that McCarthy was "very happy" over his selection. The 69-year-old retired manager has been living near Buffalo since he stepped down as skipper of the Boston Red Sox in 1950, because of poor health.

"Little did I think when I was in the minor leagues I would ever make the Hall of Fame," said McCarthy. "I certainly want to thank everyone who made it possible."

Crawford, who drew his nickname from his home town of Wahoo, Neb., where he was born 76 years ago, was at his remote desert cabin at Pearblossom, Calif., his wife said, probably unaware of his selection.

McCarthy played second base and managed in the minors from 1906 to 1920, winning two pennants at Louisville, before he moved up to manage the Chicago Cubs in 1926.

When McCarthy moved to Yankee Stadium in 1931 he hit the jackpot. The Yanks won eight pennants and seven world series under Marse Joe, four of each in succession from 1936 to 1939. Until Casey Stengel came along to make it five in a row from 1949 to 1953, that was tops.

Late in his career after Larry MacPhail took over the Yanks, McCarthy left the Yanks to retire. He came back a year later to take the Boston Red Sox job and held it from 1948 until the middle of 1950. In his entire managing career covering 32 years, only one McCarthy team finished in the second division, the 1922 Louisville club, which was sixth.

Crawford played with Cincinnati from 1899 to 1902 and with Detroit from 1903 to 1917, teaming with Ty Cobb in the outfield. His lifetime total of 96 homers looks meager in the modern age, but he was considered a power hitter in the "dead ball" days. In fact, he was the only man to lead both majors in homers, the National with 16 at Cincinnati in 1901 and the American with seven at Detroit in 1908. His lifetime total of 312 triples still is the major league record.

In 19 years, Crawford managed a lifetime average of .309 with a total of 2,964 hits.

Hamm's Wins Concordia Tournament

The Hamm's basketball team won the Concordia tournament Saturday night by defeating Concordia 66-61 in a close game in which the lead changed hands several times.

Concordia took second place, and Hughesville stopped Leeton 83-72 to win third place, Leeton coming in fourth.

Waverly won the consolation cash by beating Sweet Springs 99-73.

Anderson and Lennox were Hamm's top scorers, with Anderson handling offensive and Lennox doing his best work in rebounds. Anderson netted 21 points, Lennox scored 18 and Homan dropped in another 14.

The Hamm's team jumps into the Lions Club tournament in Sedalia Tuesday night, starting at 7:45 at Horace Mann School. They play Marshall.

Rocky Marciano Says Something Old, New

KENOSHA, WIS. (AP)—Rocky Marciano said something old and something new last night.

He reiterated that he has retired from the ring for good and declared he'll donate a $5,000 television fee toward settling Joe Louis' huge tax debt.

Marciano said, "I've been approached by a TV program, 'What's My Line,' and offered $5,000 tax free to appear for Louis and I'm going to do it."

Marciano knocked out Louis late in 1951. Rocky went on to knock out Joe Walcott for the title in 1952.

On Predators List

CALGARY, Alta. (AP)—The Calgary Fish and Game Assn. has recommended that six species of hawks and two of owl be placed on the predator list as harmful to game birds. The suggested list includes marsh hawks, sharp-shinned hawks, goshawks, Cooper's hawks, duck and pigeon hawks, great horned owls and snowy owls.

Mickey Mantle Puts His Name On Third Top Yank Contract

NEW YORK (AP)—Mickey Mantle officially puts his name on the third richest contract in New York Yankee history today after quietly but dramatically revealing his intentions.

"I have reached an agreement with the Yankees and will sign a contract Monday," the 25-year-old triple crown winner told some 1,600 guests at the 34th annual dinner of the New York chapter of the Baseball Writers' Assn. of America last night.

Mantle, who received the Sid Mercer Award as Player of the Year for 1956, termed the agreement "very satisfactory" but declined to give the figures.

From another source, it was learned the contract calls for about $60,000—third to the $100,000 paid Joe Dimaggio and the $80,000 to Babe Ruth by the Yankees. Yogi Berra is believed to be close to Mantle with a $58,000 contract for playing in 1957. Mantle's announcement came so sudden and quietly that few in the audience realized at the moment that he was announcing the end of his salary argument with Yankee General Manager George Weiss. It was believed today's signing was a mere formality. The Associated Press learned that Mantle apparently signed his contract yesterday after a conference with Weiss and Asst. General Manager Lee MacPhail.

Mosdell Has Fine Hockey Record
CHICAGO (AP)—Kenny Mosdell has hung up his skates after 13 years and two months in the National Hockey League. Except for this season when he was with the Chicago Black Hawks, all of his big league career was with the Montreal Canadiens.

Now 34, he seemed to improve as he grew older for he enjoyed his best campaigns during 1953-54 and 1954-55. In 1954 he made the All-Star team. He was born in Montreal.

Purdue Facts Can Squelch Pop's Noise

The Associated Press
Next time Pop starts that pipe and slippers routine about the old cage game, the center jump, Doc Naismith and Hank Luisetti, hit him right below the bald spot with this one:

What team has won or shared in the most Big Ten basketball titles?

Chances are he'll be tempted to guess Indiana, Iowa or Illinois like everybody else, but he'll be looking for the trick and say Chicago. Then cut him off quick, saying he'd never guess anyway, and tell him the answer is Wisconsin and Purdue—13 each.

Yes, Purdue! The Indiana school had 'em all by 1940 (Pop should know that) but hasn't been heard from since. Wisconsin took crowns in '41 and '47.

But today unranked Purdue was making more noise than a bunch of Boilermakers and again looming as the power in the Western Conference after upsetting Illinois, No. 7 in the Associated Press weekly poll, Saturday night. The 85-74 triumph gave the Boilermakers a 12-2 over-all mark and a 5-1 league record.

Beaten only by Ohio State (75-68 at Columbus), Purdue has a chance to replace the Buckeyes (6-1) as loop leader tonight. A Purdue victory at Michigan, coupled with an Illinois triumph over visiting Ohio State would do the job. The 11th-ranked Buckeyes, idle over the weekend, and the Boilermakers do not meet again this season.

Illinois, whose star center, George Bon Salle, will be scholastically ineligible after the Ohio State game, is now 3-2 and tied for third with Michigan and Indiana.

In the Big Seven country, Wilt Chamberlain rebounded Kansas, No. 2 in the nation, to a 75-64 revenge victory over eighth-ranked Iowa State.

The Cyclones, fourth behind Nebraska and Kansas State, are down for a home court battle with league foe Colorado tonight.

The weekend's big surprise was third-ranked Louisville's 81-78 defeat by Memphis State.

Duck Luck
TALOGA, Okla. (AP)—It was a bit embarrassing for John Myers. He took his son, John Lee, hunting and while dad was missing, the boy got several birds.

Finally, Myers got a duck but he was all out of breath when he got through. He saw a winged duck running on the ground and he chased it down.

In Big Seven Race

Damper on 'The Stilt' Failed To Keep Jayhawks From Win

Iowa State stopped the great Wilt Chamberlain for the third time this season, but putting the scoring damper on the 7-foot sophomore wasn't enough to prevent the Kansas Jayhawks from jumping back into undisputed lead in the Big Seven basketball race.

The Jayhawks came up with sparkling play from a couple of lesser known sophomores, Ron Loneski and Bob Billings, to go with Chamberlain's rebounding for a 75-64 victory over Iowa State at Lawrence Saturday.

Iowa State stunned a capacity crowd of some 17,500 in Allen Field House by taking a commanding lead early—by 11 points at one time in the first half—and sticking in gamely until its two tall men, Don Medsker and John Krochkeski, fouled out with about 7 minutes remaining.

All told, four Cyclones fouled out of the game. They did a good job on Chamberlain, limiting him to only 4 points the first half and keeping the long boy under control until after Medsker and Krochkeski had departed.

Chamberlain wound up with 19 points, but for the third time was outscored by 5-10 Gary Thompson son of Iowa State, who counted 21. Earlier this season Kansas beat Iowa State by one point in the Big Seven tournament but Iowa State won by two points in their first regular season game.

Loneski, making his first start of the season after recovering from an injury, matched Chamberlain's 19 points. Billings gave Kansas its best playmaking of the campaign after entering the game in the second half.

The victory, Kansas' 13th of the season against one loss and the fourth in five league games, just about eliminated Iowa State (3-3) from the championship picture although the Cyclones boast a fine 12-4 season record.

Kansas will meet its new No. 1 challenger, the Nebraska Cornhuskers at Lawrence Saturday night. Nebraska (2-1) has been idle since Jan. 19. The Huskers could get deflated tonight, however, when they meet Kansas State at Manhattan.

Kansas State, the 1956 champion, moved into contention Saturday by beating Colorado 73-60 at Manhattan with big John Booz pouring in 36 points. It was Kansas' third league victory against two defeats.

Oklahoma nipped a four-game losing streak by beating Texas 71-59 in a non-league tilt at Norman, Okla.

Everybody plays this week: Tonight—Nebraska at Kansas State, Colorado at Iowa State.

Tuesday—Oklahoma at Missouri.

Friday—Oklahoma A&M at Oklahoma, Drake at Iowa State. Saturday—Kansas at Nebraska, Missouri at Colorado.

Three Big Hockey Scorers Active

NEW YORK (AP)—Only four National Hockey League players have scored more than 300 goals. Three are still active. They are Gordie Howe and Ted Lindsay of the Detroit Red Wings and Maurice Richard of Montreal. Nels Stewart, the fourth is retired.

Yale Alumni Magazine Has Noticeable Lack of Surprise

By SAUL PETT
NEW YORK (AP) — People die. People are born. Things change. But not Yale men, not basically.

I have in hand the latest issue of the Yale Alumni magazine, a journal normally seen only by the white buckskin sons of Eli, whose hearts still turn every sundown toward New Haven with the eternal sigh, "For God, for country and for Yale."

The magazine is interesting not because of its surprises but because of its relative lack of surprises. Now, I do not claim that it reflects or suggests a Yale stereotype but I do submit that Sinclair Lewis, were he still alive, might vastly relish the contents of this alumni journal, known to the faithful as Yam.

Of the first four ads in the magazine, one is devoted to the problems of "squaring away" the family estate through a distinguished New York bank, one suggests the advancement opportunities at an aircraft company, one (by another distinguished New York bank) poses the question of "how do you select securities?" and the fourth is a testimonial to the naturalistic "good taste and individuality" of Brooks Brothers, tailors, by appt., to the Ivy League.

The individual class notes reflect a certain amount of poignancy. The classes immediately before and after the turn of the century sadly report the passing of old chums. Later we get the news of so-and-so becoming a grandfather for the second time. More recently, of course, there are the marriage and birth announcements.

I was particularly taken by the report by a member of the class of '35, who writes in a breezy, open handed style that might be typical of back-slapping old grads. It began:

"What with one thing and another we failed to get around to dictating these notes to our good and willing secretary during working hours, and to our horror we find ourselves pecking away at our Royal portable that we bought freshman year. We hope that ye editor of Yam is on his toes and catches all grotesque and comical errors in spelling and typing as we find that we have only about one-third the ability to type we had freshman year."

By a strange chain of circumstances we happened to be sipping a third scotch and soda in the lounge of the Dorchester in London last week when who should appear out of the foggy corners of the room but Jim Fulton. Jim is, as you probably recall, one of the legal eagles and bright hopes of Merck and Co. in Rahway, N.J. It appeared that he was in London to earn a few million for Merck by closing a spectacular deal with somebody.

The '49 class notes were devoted largely to a survey of the current status of its graduates. Most members, it may be presumed, are now in their early thirties, having been delayed in their college work by military service. Still . . .

"Income-wise," said the survey, "one-quarter of our class is earning between $7,000 and $9,000; about 18 per cent between $5,000 and $7,000; 16 per cent between $9,000 and $11,000; and 12 per cent between $3,000 and $5,000."

"Five per cent of the respondents claimed incomes exceeding $25,000 a year. About 4 per cent of our class have wives who work full time at an income producing job. Twenty-two per cent have wives with a separate income. . . . It seemed that most of the respondents claiming $25,000 a year and over also were married to wives who have separate incomes."

The survey also showed that 64 per cent own one car; 27 per cent, two cars; 1 per cent, three or more cars, and about 8 per cent, no cars. Among 420 response, "there were only two airplane owners as against 47 boat owners."

Politically, 63 per cent consider themselves Republicans, 15 per cent, Democrats, and 22 per cent, independents. But the most reassuring single item, I, as a graduate of a humble Midwestern university found, was this:

"Fifty-five per cent have bought appliances, etc., at a discount house within the last year."

It's nice to know that Yale men, too, are scurrying around in that magical land between wholesale and retail prices.

Sedalian Has Part in Story On Oil Finds

A Sedalian figure in a story carried in Wednesday's Democrat concerning a recently-developed oil field in the Southwest which has brought sudden wealth to the Navajo Indians.

Three years ago, Mrs. Lelita Dempsey, 400 West Sixth, daughter of the late Judge and Mrs. E. H. Weinrich, purchased oil and gas leases in Emery County, Utah. That is what is known as the Four Corners area, where Utah, New Mexico, Colorado and Arizona touch. It is now the latest in a series of good oil finds in the Rocky Mountain area since World War II. Proven reserves, according to geologists, contain more than 225 million barrels of oil.

Mrs. Dempsey says that recently the Atlantic Refinery Co. took over her leases on a two-year option, giving her a 3½ per cent royalty on any oil found in that area. Since then the Shell Oil Co. has also approached her, not knowing the leases had already been tied up.

Mrs. Dempsey said that, while no drilling is going on in the area where she has leases, oil finds have been made next to it in several directions and it is only a matter of time until the whole area is developed. The option price itself was double her initial investment.

Antigua, an island in the British West Indies, has an area of 170 square miles. It has a population of approximately 51,000 people.

Janitor Discovers Missing Documents In Building Basement

CHICAGO (AP)—A janitor cleaning an apartment building basement yesterday found "secret government documents" which the FBI said were stolen from a physicist en route to a South Bend, Ind., guided missile plant.

Donald S. Hostetter, Chicago FBI chief, said the discovery was reported by Edward A. Merk, janitor for a building located on the city's south side.

Hostetter described the documents as "mostly classified secret." He said they apparently "were discarded by a thief and are intact as far as we are able to determine."

Dr. Fletcher C. Paddison, physicist at Johns Hopkins University, Wednesday reported theft of a briefcase containing the documents to the FBI and police. Paddison, of Bethesda, Md., said the briefcase was taken while he was making a telephone call from the Illinois Central 63rd Street station. The station is a few blocks from where the papers were found.

The briefcase, Hostetter said, was not found.

'Unknown Americans' Of World War II, Korea Will Be Chosen

WASHINGTON (AP)—Plans were announced today for selecting two "Unknown Americans" who fell in World War II and in Korea for burial beside their World War I comrade in Arlington National Cemetery.

The Army, Navy and Air Force will share in a ceremonial selection, with re-interment scheduled for Memorial Day, May 30, 1958. Selections will be made by May 15 next year.

The Unknown Soldier of World War I has rested at Arlington since Nov. 11, 1921. Modifications in his white tomb to accommodate two additional crypts are being discussed.

The department said there will be two preliminary selections for the Unknown American of World War II, who may be a soldier, sailor, Marine, airman or Coast Guardsman. One will be chosen from among the graves of men killed in the Pacific, the other in Europe. One of these two then will be picked for reburial.

The unknown of the Korean conflict will be selected from those buried at the national cemetery in Honolulu, Hawaii.

Dr. Jordan Says

Women Often Exaggerate Pre-Menstrual Symptoms

By Edwin P. Jordan M. D.

It is with some reluctance that I shall discuss the subject of premenstrual tension today. My hesitation comes from the fact that many people have strong imaginations and I dislike suggesting symptoms which the imagination can so readily invent or exaggerate.

However, it is generally recognized today that many women prior to the onset of their menstrual periods do develop various discomforts and symptoms which disappear, or at least fade, with the onset of the menses.

Few women have all of the symptoms associated with premenstrual tension; but among the most common are pain and swelling of the breasts, bloating of the abdomen, backache, leg cramps, slight gain in weight, headaches, worsening of certain skin eruptions, anxiety, depression, irritability or restlessness, difficulty in sleeping, dizziness and other changes from the usual state of well-being or mental contentment.

Many women experience none of these symptoms. Furthermore, if present at all, the disturbance may be mild in one woman and more severe in another.

It is not yet entirely clear what causes premenstrual tension, though the finger of suspicion certainly points toward some change in hormone production at this period of the cycle. If this is the correct explanation, it is believed that changed secretion may lead primarily to three effects, namely, some retention of fluids, disturbance in the burning of starches in the body and increase in the number of certain cells in some parts of the system.

The idea that a woman afflicted with severe premenstrual tension can only grin and bear it is beginning to be abandoned. In some women nothing much needs to be done because the symptoms are mild and last only a short time. But in others there is enough incapacitation to warrant medical help.

Several different methods of alleviating tension have been suggested. Apparently considerable relief can be provided by a diet in which the starches are reduced, salt is cut down and the proteins and fats in the diet correspondingly increased. Also some physicians claim that certain vitamins may be of help.

Several drugs have also been made available which appear to reduce the symptoms of premenstrual tension. Consequently, medicine now can provide some aid to most of those who suffer seriously from premenstrual tension.

In the light of present knowledge, however, most of these measures should be reserved for those whose lives are really disrupted by discomfort or other symptoms. The situation should be ignored by the much larger number of women who suffer not at all, or only slightly.

Brownell Makes Try To Get Civil Rights Program Under Way

By B. L. LIVINGSTONE
WASHINGTON (AP)—Opening a new round in the civil rights battle, Atty. Gen. Brownell goes to Capitol Hill today in an effort to get President Eisenhower's program off to a fast start through Congress.

Brownell was the first witness called before the House Judiciary Committee in hearings at which a sizable list of Southern foes of the President's proposals was also waiting to be heard.

Administration backers said they will fight delaying tactics.

Rep. Keating of New York, senior committee Republican, announced he will oppose any attempt to extend hearings beyond four days. He said:

"Experience has shown that if we are to get any bill to the President, we in the House must enact a bill early in the session. Only in this way can we force action in the (Senate)."

The House passed a civil rights bill late last session, but the Senate did not consider it before adjournment.

Sen. Knowland of California, the Senate GOP leader, set March 1 as a target date for starting Senate debate. Democratic leaders, less optimistic, thought late April was a more likely date.

Paul Pippett Guest Speaker

Pettis Countians Hear About Good Poultry Output System

By Lloyd Lewellen
Associate County Agent
Pettis Countians interested in the poultry and egg industry met Tuesday night at the Bothwell Hotel in Sedalia to discuss problems of production and marketing.

The meeting was planned the previous week by the county poultry committee, and John Knaus, chairman of the committee, presided. Knaus announced that three other meetings planned by the committee will be held during the year; one in the spring on producing quality eggs, one in the summer to discuss housing problems for poultry, and one in the fall on winterizing.

Mrs. Anna Bagby outlined the Chamber of Commerce plans to hold a chicken-cook in May with games, contests, etc. to be included in the day's activities. She also announced that plans had been made for Tom Day, poultry marketing specialist, to appear on a television program here in March, which has been designated as egg promotion month.

The group discussed possibilities of having a county poultry day or an evening dinner meeting in March but the final decision was left up to the poultry committee.

Guest speaker of the evening was Paul Pippett, member of the state Farm Bureau board of directors, who keeps about 1,500 laying hens on his farm near Westline, Mo., and has for a number of years maintained an egg route in Kansas City. Pippett gave his views about the present day trends in egg production and the probable prospects for the industry in the next ten years.

Anyone interested in the business of egg production should either go into it with a large enough volume that he can afford a very close margin between price and cost, or get out of it altogether as it is becoming more and more specialized. Every opportunity should be taken to cut costs, and by good management a poultryman should expect to house 90 per cent of the pullets he buys. The tendency with larger flocks will be to rear chicks in confinement in order to save on labor costs; however, confinement raised chicks must be fed carefully, watched closely for internal parasites and guarded against overcrowding, which often results in cannibalism.

More and more people are starting several batches of chicks during the year in order to have a stable production — this practice may eventually result in the elimination of the present seasonal variation in the price of eggs. Production-bred chicks are more in demand than ever before and will continue to be; the number of eggs per hen will probably increase though the size may decrease. As flocks get larger, more and more producers will purchase bulk feeds, eliminating the labor of handling sacks, and use of mechanical feeders will become more common.

Almost 15 million more chicks were started last January and February than the same periods of the year before, and prospects are for the egg market to remain highly competitive for several years to come. Pippett told of visiting two large poultry farms in Florida, located within a half mile of each other, at one farm there were 50,000 hens in a laying flock, and at the other 20,000. This is the kind of competition we must meet. Increasing use of prepared foods, such as cake mixes, which use dried eggs, has helped depress the market for fresh quality eggs.

In view of these trends, there are a number of things which poultrymen should do in the next few years to improve their situation. First, there is great need for education about what Grade A eggs actually are — many people still do not realize that the grade is a designation for quality, and not size. Producers must do more advertising and promotion to increase consumption of eggs. Procurement must become more efficient so there will be shorter time between producer and consumer.

Refrigerator display cases in food stores help sell eggs, and should be more widely used. Farmer co-op egg markets are big operations in other areas, and help cut down marketing costs. Eggs are even sold at auction in some places. In summing up, Pippett advised egg producers to sharpen pencils and do a lot of close figuring before deciding whether or not to stay in the egg business.

At the close of his talk those present joined in an interesting informal discussion of egg production problems and possible solutions. Coffee and doughnuts were served for refreshments.

AFL-CIO Claims Three Unions Are Corrupt

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The AFL-CIO charged three of its own unions today with corruption and failure to reform in a precedent-making ouster move.

Leaders of the merged AFL-CIO pushed for a show down on charges against the Laundry Workers, Distillery Workers and Allied Industrial Workers unions. The latter union has been the target of recent Senate investigations.

The AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee accused the three unions, claiming a combined membership of 170,000, of looting welfare funds of millions of dollars. The committee's reports were placed before the AFL-CIO Executive Council for action.

The council was reported divided between those disposed to give the three unions another chance to correct matters, and another council group, believed dominant, determined to make an example of the trio for other AFL-CIO unions.

The three unions were roundly condemned in a 1955 Senate Labor subcommittee investigation. The secret reports of the Ethical Practices Committee, summing up findings of the 1955 Senate investigation as well as private union probes, said the unions have done nothing to insure honest welfare fund handling and were guilty of associating with gangster influences.

Refrigerator display cases in food stores help sell eggs, and should be more widely used. Farmer co-op egg markets are big operations in other areas, and help cut down marketing costs. Eggs are even sold at auction in some places. In summing up, Pippett advised egg producers to sharpen pencils and do a lot of close figuring before deciding whether or not to stay in the egg business.

At the close of his talk those present joined in an interesting informal discussion of egg production problems and possible solutions. Coffee and doughnuts were served for refreshments.

Solicitations Begin In Race Fight Defense

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Door-to-door solicitations were underway today in an effort to raise a $60,000 legal defense fund for white persons arrested on warrants signed by Negro pro-integration leaders.

The "Alabama segregation defense fund" drive began with passing out of collection buckets. An expected 100 solicitors will each approach 1,000 persons in Montgomery and adjoining counties, fund spokesman Jack Brock said.

between those disposed to give the three unions another chance to correct matters, and another council group, believed dominant, determined to make an example of the trio for other AFL-CIO unions.

The three unions were roundly condemned in a 1955 Senate Labor subcommittee investigation. The secret reports of the Ethical Practices Committee, summing up findings of the 1955 Senate investigation as well as private union probes, said the unions have done nothing to insure honest welfare fund handling and were guilty of associating with gangster influences.

Refrigerator display cases in food stores help sell eggs, and should be more widely used. Farmer co-op egg markets are big operations in other areas, and help cut down marketing costs. Eggs are even sold at auction in some places. In summing up, Pippett advised egg producers to sharpen pencils and do a lot of close figuring before deciding whether or not to stay in the egg business.

At the close of his talk those present joined in an interesting informal discussion of egg production problems and possible solutions. Coffee and doughnuts were served for refreshments.

Third Correspondent To Defy Ban by US Goes Back to Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — The third American newsmen to defy the State Department's ban on travel in Red China has returned to Moscow.

William Worthy of the Baltimore Afro-American declined to make any comment on his arrival by plane from Peking. He was expected to spend several days in the Soviet capital before leaving for home.

The other two newsmen, correspondent Edmund Stevens and photographer Phil Harrington of Look magazine, returned in late January. The State Department had announced in December the passports of all three would be revoked. However, the American Embassy reportedly was instructed to question the three men but not to take any action on their passports.

The three unions were roundly condemned in a 1955 Senate Labor subcommittee investigation. The secret reports of the Ethical Practices Committee, summing up findings of the 1955 Senate investigation as well as private union probes, said the unions have done nothing to insure honest welfare fund handling and were guilty of associating with gangster influences.

West European Bloc to Ask US A-Power Help

WASHINGTON (AP) — A combine of Western European countries will ask the United States this week to back the development of a huge atomic power industry in Europe.

They want American materials and know-how for their own development, even though the United States now has no such industry.

A group of top-flight scientists and economists led by three representatives of the combine begins talks today with the Atomic Energy Commission, the State Department and other government agencies.

One obvious aim of the project is to make Western Europe less dependent on Middle Eastern oil. The atomic pool, called "Euratom," is being formed by Belgium, France, West Germany, Italy, Luxembourg and the Netherlands.

Officials said Eisenhower administration leaders are deeply interested in the plan and "very sympathetic" toward United States support.

Backers say without such support the project would have to be greatly scaled out, perhaps abandoned.
